About me

Full stack developer focused on creating effective online solutions. I have experience in creating websites, webshops, and seamless integrations for them.

In addition to my development skills, I have gained knowledge of technical marketing tools like Google Tag Manager, Google Analytics 4 and Meta Pixel which are essential for ecommerce solutions. I also pay attention to SEO strategies to make sure websites are not only visually appealing but optimized for search engines too.

Additionally, I have experience in server operation and maintenance (Linux, Unix), handling the infrastructure required to support these online solutions as part of my DevOps responsibilities.

Beyond web development, I also build desktop and mobile applications, whether a standalone program or a mobile companion to an existing system, providing tailored solutions for various business needs.

What I'm doing

Web and Mobile Development

Websites, web applications and mobile apps from frontend to backend, built with SEO in mind.

Desktop Development

Developing efficient desktop applications using C# and .NET, tailored to business needs.

Servers

Managing Linux and Unix-based server infrastructures, ensuring system reliability and scalability.

Everything Else

Everything related to development, from online marketing to ecommerce platforms.
